India, Peshawar, May 29, 2011: The contributions from the Indian subcontinent in world history are truly remarkable. From Aryan armies marching from the Ganges to the Himalayas and the seven cities of the west (India, Iran, Mesopotamia, Greece, Rome, Syria and Egypt) to the political, economic, social and cultural achievements of this region in the last 20,000 years were unmatched by any other civilization till the modern-day world became engulfed in Second World War. Inaugurating the first-ever conference on ‘Sugarcane and Sugarcane Industry’ here at a resort in Lahore on May 28, a series of research reports on the topic by the Department of Sugarcane and Sugar Industries (DSSI), Punjab was the theme of the day. A total of three researches under different sections of the programme included the investigations on: GSET- Leaflet (free download), selected by the Government of India as part of the institution based innovative project for the vernacular language of Pakistan/Amaaz in 2014, ‘Nihang’ or Nihang Akbar (1595-1670) is the greatest Punjab fighting hero. GPOU – Green Pakistani Peoples’ University has started its first curriculum writing session, and the intention of the mission is to provide better opportunities for the betterment of the education system and to inculcate professional qualities by providing better skills, and to create a platform for students to interact with fellow students, faculty, and to foster an atmosphere of professional interaction. Sindh, Karachi, May 22, 2011: Democracy is a catchword in Pakistan. With a large number of candidates who compete for public office, corruption and nepotism are on the rise. Since its inception in 1997, Pakistan People’s Party (PPP) government has given a full voice to the voiceless in the country. With election coming closer on May 11, and given the emphasis on education by PPP, PPP will always have the advantage as the number of candidates increases. However, the PPP government has been helpful in creating an environment of tolerance. By enacting a beautiful new law to allow a Pakistani citizen to travel abroad without having to go through Pakistan’s Embassy in his/her home country, the PML(N) government has helped increase ties with countries like China and India to the extent that it could be one of d0c515b9f4
