SEATTLE – Soon-to-be NFL starting quarterback Andrew Luck wants his own Seahawks jersey. Luck, in a note to ESPN.com and the Seahawks, writes that he'd like a chance to put his name on a high-quality Seahawks jersey. "One of my favorite players from the 2010-2011 seasons was Brent Wagner. I had the honor of meeting him at the draft in New York last season and was able to interview him and show him some pictures of my baby daughter. I am excited to see what Brent does the rest of his career and if he will become a Hall of Famer. I was hoping that during the 2010-2011 season, he would be able to get a Seahawks jersey for himself. I hope to receive that same opportunity myself. Hopefully, I get to get to Seattle and meet Brent Wagner before he signs with another team." Maybe during the season, Luck will wear No. 1, or No. 12, or No. 16. Or maybe he will get one of those specialty No. 11 jerseys, like Martin Mayhew always appears in. Maybe Luck will choose the number 16 for himself, or 13, or number 9, whatever he wants. Maybe the Seahawks will design a new special one for him. Maybe they'll be the first to do that. (One of our Seahawks draft team writers asked the same question on Twitter about Luck's jersey, and we did our best to answer it in a Seahawks-related way.)This comic was made for the first contest. Hey guys I'm gonna post my entry for the 15th deviant art competition. This is the 3D version of a custom I was never really satisfied with the first two versions: the last one. (- Screenshot) This is a space combat. I wanted something fast to finish in one hour. I'm using a custom bullet type and a custom robot. My aiming is horrible, to name it.What is really going on in politics? They don't have a party ideology to check their broadsides against. They don't have party chiefs to tell them what to do. They're completely out of their depth. Last year, on St. Valentine's Day, a poll was carried out to discover what kind of romantic day Theresa May should have in her diary. It was a quiz. The survey found that 27% would make a romantic dinner for a start. The sort of food would be "creamed scrambled eggs, mushroom and tomato casserole or Yorkshire pudding and steak pie followed by salad". That would be followed by a section of the survey where the choice offered was between "going to a movie with him/her" and "going for a walk on the seafront". No prizes for guessing which option most people picked. Meanwhile, 30% picked "stay in and watch a film". Even one of the choices about shopping was to go to the high street. (Image: Getty) This isn't about what Theresa May does with her day, it's about what each Prime Minister does with their day. Time is the most valuable commodity a PM has. They can't have it if they're at a meeting or in the Commons or on the Campaign Trail. At the very least, if you're important, they should be in a secure location or should be delivering a speech without interruption. In a relationship, there
