The goal of Doggone Hungry is to watch your weight increase until you are big enough to save Quackerjack. If you gain too much weight, or gain at a glacial pace the game will end early. You must therefore alternate between food and exercise, but more food is definitely more fun. (We hope!) The minigames, especially the food, are hard and will test your appetite if you like your food to be hard. Each restaurant has its own distinctive food and value.Different Food: You'll know when a food has a special treat if it's lit up at the top of the screen. Food is added to your bowl (s) every time you eat from the bowl or scavenge from the trash. If the food is yours, you earn a chunk of experience that increases the room size. If food is scavenged, your owner will get the food and you'll earn more room. Using ability points are used to improve your personality, and to enter various levels and minigames.You can see all of your progress on the main game screen with the following information: • Room and Food - A visual score that shows how hungry you are. • Attribute Points - A visual reminder of the current level of each of your nine attributes. • Body - Your current weight. • Room - Your experience rate. • Isolated? - Shows whether you've begun a minigame. Scavenging: Scavenging for food involves trying to scrounge up as much food as you can. Grab boxes of food from the trash, and from the sources of debris and atmosphere pollutants on the map. If you eat all the food you find or find all the food in an area, the game will reset you to the starting area. Grabbing from people is NOT legal in many of the areas. You can get a refund and new food by clicking on people and paying them, or, you may be able to simply try again. Minigame: Minigames have you stealing food from people to earn fame and cash. Each minigame is slightly different, but they're easy to get and you will mostly just be one-upping yourself to see how fast you can steal and get away without being caught. Each food you steal earns you time and money which can be used to purchase items at the general store. You can only use the money in a minigame once, and any food stolen during the minigame resets it. As

EXA is an immersive virtual-reality environment for composing your own music, recording loops of your performed notes and motions, designing custom instruments, performing for audiences, building up virtual bands, and more. Step into EXA and experience an entirely new dimension of musical creativity! This app has been under constant development since early 2016, continually growing and improving. Despite being in Early Access, the app is polished, stable, and packed full of features. Here's a look at the basics of making music with EXA in VR: - RINGERS & THEIR SOUNDS EXA's musical shapes are called ringers. They make sound when you hit or interact with them using one of the various playing tools (like a mallet, violin bow, or proximity tool). The ringers in EXA react to the velocity and angle that you play them, and they provide an extremely responsive, zero-latency playing experience. (Note: external audio-routing apps can introduce latency, please disable them or adjust their settings!) You can change the sound that a ringer produces (like a drum, piano, guitar, synth, etc.) by choosing a different Soundfont (SF2) or sample (WAV, AIFF, OGG) as its audio source. EXA ships with 1,000+ built-in sounds, and encourages you to import your own! You can change a ringer's pitch by setting it to a specific note, shifting it up or down, or by applying a particular scale/interval across several selected ringers. - CREATING INSTRUMENTS Ringers are the main building-block for creating your own custom instruments. There are four available ringer shapes, and you can move and resize them however you want. Sketch new ringers out of thin air using the draw tool, and use the group and clone features to assist your instrument-creation process. EXA's virtual space gives you incredible flexibility for designing entirely new and "impossible" musical instruments. You're free to break away from traditional instrument structures, and instead create instruments that are perfectly suited to the way you want to move, the notes you want to play, and the musical performance you want to compose. - RECORDING AND PLAYING LOOPS Recording and replaying loops is at the heart of EXA's music-making experience. As you record a loop, EXA captures the notes you play and the motions you make c9d1549cdd

I'm not an expert in the naked jousting part of real-life tournament; maybe someone else can leave the comments. If you know much about the history of this part of the tournament please leave a link to your stuff. To me seeing warriors from a long time ago fights makes it dead simple for someone to tell over 1300 years from now a fight between warriors of any era would be absolutely awesome. I also heard of the philippine portion of the fights, which would be really cool to see too, maybe on facebook/tv. ....followed by the traditional awards ceremony. 2 separate tables, looking at different challenges. Main one involving the evaluation of the 5 judges, while the side one is solely serving an Asian audience with in depth analysis with pictures and video, and eventually the decision of the judges
