I have a list of words I am attempting to remove from a text file using Regex. The words in the list all end with either a "-" or "." When I try the following pattern: Pattern.compile("\\w+\\.(?:\\w+)+-.*"); I get an error: Java.lang.IllegalStateException: No match Any ideas? A: Try doing it the other way around: Pattern.compile("\\w+\\.(?:\\w+)+\\.?"); The dot.? will match any character, as you've defined (ie. not surrounded by [a-zA-Z]\w+). This will match literally anything, as opposed to \w+, which will match something that is \w or a digit. Since \w+ will never match. or -, you don't need to use a character class. Also, since you're trying to match a non-greedy version of what you have, the + (as opposed to * in greedy mode) are unnecessary. Note that since the.? character class consumes one character, you can't have a variable number of. characters. The easiest way to do that is to use a lookahead to force a match at the end, like so: Pattern.compile("(? 0cc13bf012

They are just content living in the woods. So you can see why the future is plausible and likely. There’s also something funny about this scene. We have Dr. Manhattan arrive in this society and declare that the experiment is over. Despite him being all powerful with no fear or self-doubt, he’s powerless and unable to escape. He just screams at them and leaves, and the experiment continues uninterrupted. We also see several things that give this future’s depiction of NYC a post-apocalyptic feel. The lack of traffic, the background garbage and waste everywhere. Also, no skyscrapers and the city being exactly one mile wide. These stories were originally written in the 1950s and 1960s and the reason why these things can be realistically depicted is due to computers and technology that gives this future a very futuristic feel. I’m not going to go too much into the science, but a version of Manhattan was created in a computer in a virtual reality. Also, the city is one mile wide so it is truly a large city (although it’s a single dimension). Some things that happen in this future are: Inhabitants of the city are happy and peaceful. The inhabitants eat better than they ever have. There is no poverty. There is no crime. If you read page 4 of this comic there is a small funny about why the parts of the city in the future that have advanced technology are calm. Dr. Manhattan says that in the future the genius architects should
