Q: How to check name of a form? I want to check the name of a form, but it changes in the moment. For example: ... When I submit the form, the variable `$form_name="signupform"`, but after submitting it, it changes to `"loginform"`. How can I get the name of the form in the order it was submitted (first submitted)? A: You can use the standard `$_POST` method for this: `if ($_POST) { if (isset($_POST['signupform'])) { // It is called signupform, so do stuff } }`

Alkali Solvent-Induced Nanostructure Formation in Perovskite Films: Surface Imprinting and Enhanced Photovoltaic Performance. Halide perovskite solar cells have demonstrated remarkable efficiencies exceeding 23% and have attracted significant attention in the field of energy research. In most cases, methylammonium lead iodide ( $\text{CH}_3\text{NH}_3\text{PbI}_3$ ) is the most widely used material in preparing perovskite solar cells. However, the aforementioned material is sensitive to moisture and easily undergoes dissolution in the solvent during the solution process, leading to degradation of the device performance. Here, we report a protocol to fabricate high-quality perovskite films using a two-step solution method. In this case, the growth of perovskite films is induced by the alkali ion in the solution, and by using a preliminary step of coating a mesoporous silica thin film, the hydrophobic property of the perovskite film is reduced. The reason is that hydrophobic silica coating causes selective growth of mesoporous layer on the silica surface that absorbs the alkali ion and forms a mesoporous structure of the perovskite film. The root-mean-square roughness (RMS) of the silica surface prepared by our method is about 4.2 nm, and the roughness of the perovskite film is about 20 nm, which is obviously smaller than that of the bare perovskite films (ca. 50 nm). The better mesoporous structure enhances the intercry

What's New in the?

As can be seen by reference to the following U.S. Pat. Nos. 3,969,686; 4,162,817; 4,275,982; 4,484,619 and 4,674,694 the prior art is replete with myriad and diverse material dispensing devices. While all of the aforementioned prior art constructions are more than adequate for the basic purpose and function for which they have been specifically designed, these prior art devices are uniformly deficient with respect to their inability to provide a simple, efficient and practical material dispensing system that will enable a user to accurately, positively and easily dispense a wide variety of predetermined or preselected amounts of a material from a housing into a vessel or a container. Perhaps the most prominent example of this deficiency can be found in automotive vehicles where a multiplicity of service personnel are found to be filling up a variety of vessels with a wide variety of different types of fluids. In such an environment it is totally impractical to repeatedly use a hand-held, hand-actuated, manually-operated, pump to dispense predetermined measured quantities of fluid from a container into a vessel. As a consequence of the foregoing situation, there has existed a longstanding need among automobile service personnel, as well as other users, for a new and improved fluid dispenser; and, the provision of such a construction is a stated objective of the present invention.

Q: How to add multiple files to a Gemfile using the RubyBuilder I'm currently working with Ruby on Rails and am using the RubyBuilder. The problem is that using the RubyBuilder, I have to add multiple files to the Gemfile but the RubyBuilder doesn't seem to support that. Is there a way to do that? A: The RubyBuilder works through a Rubocop rule that allows you to bundle your files. Instead of using the RubyBuilder to handle that, you would use `Bundler's require_gem' and `require_bundler' to handle this for you. The example below is for Rails. It assumes you have the relevant Ruby and Rubygems installed. It also assumes you have a base project directory that contains a Gemfile. `#!/usr/bin/env ruby require 'rubygems' require 'bundler/setup' Bundler.require(:default)` If you'd like to access these files from a Ruby project you
