I found myself as an Android beginner a bit in love with the library. I have found this example in the documentation on how to check if the coordinates of an object are within a rectangle: Could someone explain how this works? I do not see where the rectangle is defined. I am just pointing to an example here. How are the values defined? A: It's defined in the source file: package com.google.common.geometry; import com.google.common.base.Function; public class Rect { private final int left, top, right, bottom; public Rect(int left, int top, int right, int bottom) { this.left = left; this.top = top; this.right = right; this.bottom = bottom; } @Override public int hashCode() { return left + (right 0cc13bf012
