A: I've just stumbled across this feature, so it's new to me. I think this might be what you're looking for (assuming you're running Ubuntu): If you want to have an application be desktop-aware instead of window-aware, you could try this simple trick: Go to the System > Preferences > Startup Applications (or just press Ctrl+Alt+T) In the Startup Programs window, click the Add button Select 'Desk Top' from the list of Categories For the command, enter (any executable program you want) and '--desktop'. The first time you run the command you'll be prompted whether to open the application directly from the desktop; you can choose either option - I usually choose desktop so I don't have to open the start

As THR points out, that photo is the one taken at the Staples Center, as well as the one that includes Will Smith and his son with the Big Apple Taxi Cap. And as many people have pointed out, the taxi cap also links to the Making Movies For The Best commercial, which has a great Will Smith voiceover, and has been running in television ads in the US for the past month. When someone sent Will Smith a tweet asking if he was in fact cancelling the Global Citizen Festival because a

No strings attached. — Will Smith (@IrvChip) July 22, 2015 But Will Smith hasn't cancelled his appearance at the festival, and he's not technically the only star there. Other stars include Susan Sarandon, Jon Hamm, Alicia Keys, Beyoncé and Jaden Smith, and as well as their own charities, they're also the co-founders of the GCF. Is the taxi cap a coincidence? We'll probably never know. But on one hand, it could just be a first place). Does it come with standard Ubuntu or do I have to download it separately? It is included with Ubuntu 14.04. If you are using Unity, try: `sudo apt-get install desktopdmoted` If you want it for Cinnamon, try: `sudo apt-get install desktopdmoted-cinnamon` I like to use it in conjunction with Unity Tweak Tool. You can toggle it in: Apps > Window Manager (Or you can install Tweak Tool separately) If your system is fine without it, I would not recommend it. Let me know if this answer was useful for you. A: For Ubuntu 17.10 (17.04 if you install Tweaks Tool) you can get desktopmost for Cinnamon by installing the package desktopmost-cinnamon. { "__comment": "Generated", "id": "526d6e03-52ce-42b5-a8d3-9590c6c22d93", "index": 0,
