A: For PHPBB (a vBulletin forum software) I fixed a similar problem by removing the "charset=UTF-8" and the "mb_internal_encoding=UTF-8" from php.ini: ; UTF-8 Unicode (with BOM) ; ; ; I'm not sure whether that will help, however.

Q: SQL query: show rows with the same item but different table I have 2 tables A and B, and i need to show only those records that are in B, but have the same item as the A row. Can it be accomplished with SQL? These are the tables SQL fiddle A: You can do it with left join: select b.* from B as b left join A as a on b.item = a.item where a.id is null Demo: UPDATE: I'd use inner join instead of left join but both versions will work. I just prefer more clear version because left join is implicit and I think it is easier to use. UPDATE2: And thanks for clarification on item, because some of answers here don't pay attention to it. I doubt your're data can have identical rows, but in case it can, this gives left join version: select b.* from B as b left join A as a on b.item = a.item where a.id is null and a.id = b.a_id Demo: Factors influencing productivity in a competitive environment: a study of private obstetrics. The authors consider the productivity of obstetricians in a private setting, divided into a period when private obstetrics were dominated by a single obstetrician, and a period when multiple obstetricians were practising in that area. The authors claim that analysis of productivity over time indicates the presence of significant group and individual factors which affect productivity in a competitive environment. The findings can help in planning policy developments for e79caf774b can't do what you want in Active Directory because Group Policy is a user-specific setting and not a computer or system-wide setting. If a user is assigned Group Policy, the user can only see and apply Group Policy settings that the administrator set. If you want to assign the Fast Activate addon from the Fast Activate User Group and add them
