They removed all hints of Randy Dave, all his many digital versions of his illustrations were removed from his fan art site. Go to the book you want, remove the page with the magnetic strip and the stupid. Did you know that simply chills stand a strong chance of catching listeria, a general illness that travels in the feces, that is particularly dangerous for pregnant women or those under 65 years old with weak immune systems, and even healthy adults? It's a big problem, many babies and children are being born with listeria infections, as was the case for Luke and his wife Bryna, both of whom were in perfect health until only a few weeks before Luke's due date. His son came early and he had a fever and diarrhea, but listeria infections are very hard to diagnose, so he and his wife waited until Luke was 5 days old to get a test. The doctors told them that Luke wasn't sick, but his mom and dad were worried, so they called for help and Jessica was transferred to St. Johns Hopkins Children's Center in Baltimore. The medical team diagnosed Luke immediately and gave the team a simple order: treat Luke immediately and never let him drink from the bottle again. Jessica was in a full body cast, because she was too weak to walk, and she suffered another infection later on. But Luke's fever eventually stopped, as did the diarrhea, and he grew stronger day by day, learning to eat on a bottle. His parents were so happy that they decided to have another baby, but that wasn't meant to be. Jessica's infections were enough to make some doctors think she may have listeria, and over the course of a month or so, she had several more infections. She was in and out of the hospital constantly, and it was hard to keep up with her care, especially because she didn't have any family nearby. Jessica and her husband Mike adopted two kids from Colombia. One of them, Andrea, was just 2 months old. The care provided by the hospital wasn't working out as quickly as they hoped, so in the middle of the night, Mike and Jessica began to search the internet to find a new hospital and a new plan of care, and they found it all in one place: Holy Family Hospital in Philadelphia. Holy Family is one of the few hospitals in the U. And if you're getting listeria from the
